- Starting from the first day of the first lunar month, people wear new clothes, visit relatives and friends, and pay New Year calls to each other, expressing New Year's greetings. The time for paying New Year calls generally lasts until the fifth day of the first lunar month, and even until the Lantern Festival on the 15th day of the first lunar month.

- During the Spring Festival, there are dragon and lion dance performances in various places, which are believed to drive away evil spirits and disasters and pray for good luck and a good harvest. The temple fair is one of the important activities during the Spring Festival. There are not only sacrificial activities but also bazaar transactions and various entertainment activities, such as enjoying lanterns, guessing lantern riddles, and eating snacks. It is very lively.

- On the Lantern Festival, the 15th day of the first lunar month, people eat sweet dumplings, which symbolize reunion and happiness. At the same time, they enjoy lanterns and guess lantern riddles to celebrate the end of the Spring Festival and the beginning of the new year.

Happy New year

- These are the main customs during the Spring Festival. These customs carry rich cultural connotations and people's yearning for a better life. Although some customs may have gradually faded or changed with the passage of time, they are still an important part of traditional Chinese culture and a kind of world culture wealth.
