

中秋品茶

HAPPY
MID AUTUMN
FESTIVAL

Laney Xu

At the end of the Ming Dynasty and the beginning of the Qing Dynasty, Xiamei Village in Mount Wuyi, Fujian, became the main starting point for tea exports.

茶

tea

Tea ceremony is the way to appreciate the beauty of tea.

Chinese people, at least
before the Tang Dynasty, first regarded tea drinking as a way of self-cultivation in the world.

Inspect

taste

Tea
inspection
refers to examining the tea leaves
before
brewing tea.

Observing tea
is to observe the shape
and color of the tea leaves.

Drinking tea
requires not only savoring
the taste of the soup but also smelling
the aroma of the tea.

tea set

A photograph of a traditional tea set on a dark wooden tray. In the center is a dark brown teapot with a lid and a spout. To its right is a white porcelain cup and saucer, from which a plume of white steam rises. In front of the teapot is a small white bowl. To the left of the teapot is a small white vase. In the background, through a window, green trees are visible. The overall atmosphere is warm and traditional.

TEA TASTING

A photograph of a traditional tea ceremony setup. In the foreground, a dark, rounded teapot sits on a stand next to two small bowls filled with tea. Behind them is a small, ornate vase. The scene is set against a dark, atmospheric background featuring a large, bright full moon in the upper right and branches with green leaves and white blossoms on the left and right sides. A soft, glowing light from behind the moon creates a hazy, ethereal atmosphere.

Tea tasting and moon watching are essential entertainment activities for Mid-Autumn Festival.
